

Sally Bany

Sally Bany began her career with Columbia Sportswear Co. and operated its retail division. She continues to serve on its board of directors.

Sally and her late husband Dave Bany purchased and refreshed Moonstruck Chocolate Company. They co-founded two non-profits: Youth Music Project, which provides music education for youth; and World of Speed Museum, which features motorsports culture and teaches young people about opportunities available in the auto industry.

The Banys also founded the Marie Lamfrom Charitable Foundation to honor Sally's grandmother Marie Lamfrom, a Girl Scout troop leader for over 35 years at Shriners Hospital. One of the primary granting focuses is to improve the lives of children in Oregon.
